Take part in APW, now ABB Customer World

Join us in Houston this March

Will you be at APW, now ABB Customer World, March 13-16, 2017, in Houston, Texas? Join us – for FREE.

APW, under the new name ABB Customer World, brings together professionals from utilities, industries and infrastructure for a premier educational and collaboration event in North America.

Talk one-on-one with industry experts, network in person with colleagues, and see all the latest ABB equipment, technologies and solutions. Plus, you can earn valuable professional development hours (PDHs) for each educational session you attend.

From past lessons learned to the future revealed, attending this event saves you money, time and manpower. Ask your questions, deliver your feedback to the developers themselves, and take advantage of hands-on training by experts. Learn from ABB's customers and project managers about new and existing end-to-end digital solutions that build on the intelligent cloud and close the loop with connected devices.

For more information and to register for this conference, visit:
